Civil Action No.

CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

Plaintiffs US Life 1 Renditefonds GmbH & Co. Kg (“US Life 1”) and US Life 2 Renditefonds GmbH & Co. Kg (“US Life 2”; together, “US Life”), as owners of life insurance policies insuring the life of Ms. Martindale, on behalf of themselves and all others similarly situated, for its Complaint against defendant The Lincoln National Life Insurance Company (“Lincoln”), state as follows:

NATURE OF THE ACTION

1. This is a class action brought by plaintiffs on behalf of themselves and all similarly situated owners of JP Legend 100, 200, 300, and 400 series life insurance policies issued by Jefferson-Pilot Corporation (“Jefferson-Pilot”). Defendant Lincoln is the successor-in-interest to Jefferson-Pilot and in that capacity subjected the plaintiff owners to unlawful cost of insurance (“COI”) increases.

2. The policies at issue are all universal life policies (collectively, “UL”) issued by Jefferson-Pilot and its affiliated entities (“JP policies”). The principal benefit of UL policies is that, unlike other kinds of whole life insurance that require fixed monthly premium payments, the premiums required for UL policies are flexible and need only be sufficient to cover the COI charges and certain other specified expenses. The COI charge is typically the highest expense charge that a policyholder pays. As a result, the provision in the policy explaining how and when COI charges can be adjusted is one of the most important terms of the contract.

3. On information and belief, each JP Legend policy in these series states that COI “will be based on our expectation of future mortality, interest, expenses, and lapses,” and that “any change” in COI rates “will be on a uniform basis for Insureds of the same rating class.” Also on information and belief, each JP Legend policy in these series states that “upon request, we will provide, without charge, an illustration showing projected policy values based on guaranteed as well as current mortality and interest factors.”

4. One principal benefit of UL policies is they permit policyholders to pay the minimum amount of premiums necessary to keep the policies in-force. This allows policyholders to minimize their capital investment and generate greater rates of return through other investments. Any premiums paid in excess of COI charges and expense components are applied to a policy’s “accumulation account,” sometimes known as “policy account” or “cash value.” These excess premiums earn interest, often called the credited rate.

5. In August 2016, Lincoln informed owners of JP policies that they would be hit by a large COI rate hike (the “JP-Lincoln COI Rate Hike”). Plaintiffs’ COI increases are around 95% in the first year and 50% in the remaining two years of the policy – far beyond what the enumerated factors could justify. The increase also was not uniform among policyholders: The plaintiffs have received an illustration which implies a COI rate of 2.4% per month in policy year 15 (the period from 3/19/2017 to 3/18/2018) at the end of which the insured will be 98 years old. This COI rate is greater than the COI rate implied by the same illustration of 2.0% per month for policy year 16 (the period from 3/19/2018 to 3/18/2019) at the end of which she will be 99 years old. Greater COI charges at younger ages are illogical and, upon information and belief, have not been replicated across all policyholders of the same rating class.

6. Lincoln's FAQ sheet distributed to agents indicated three reasons for the increase: "Lower investment income as a result of continued low interest rates"; "Updated mortality assumptions, including instances of both higher and lower expected mortality rates versus prior expectations"; and "Updated expenses, including higher reinsurance rates." Yet these factors do not justify the sharp, disparate, and unusually distributed increases imposed upon Plaintiffs. Also on or around at least 2010 through 2014, Lincoln provided the Plaintiffs with illustrations, which reflected no change in future COI rates. Since that date Lincoln has filed interrogatories with the National Association of Insurance Commissioners ("NAIC"), in each year from 2010-2014, stating that it expects mortality experience to improve.

7. The JP-Lincoln COI Rate Hike breached the contracts underlying the JP policies in at least the following respects:

- a. Increases were based upon non-enumerated factors
- b. Increases were designed to recoup past losses rather than respond to future expectations
- c. Increases were non-uniform across insureds of the same rating class; and
- d. Lincoln refused to provide an illustration on a policy upon request, which it was required to do even in the absence of a COI rate hike.

8. Additionally, Jefferson-Pilot broke state laws governing misleading advertisement of unrealistic future COI rates, given that it imposed increases that were unjustified by changes in future expectations.

THE PARTIES

9. US Life 1 Renditefonds GmbH (“US Life 1”) is a limited liability company registered in Hamburg, Germany. It is the owner of a JP policy insuring the life of Ms. Martindale, a Texas resident, on or about March 19, 2003, with the policy number JP5486401 (the “401 Policy”). The 401 Policy is subject to the 2016 JP-Lincoln COI Rate Hike.

10. US Life 2 Renditefonds GmbH (“US Life 2”) is a limited liability company registered in Hamburg, Germany. It is the owner of another JP policy insuring the life of Ms. Martindale, with the policy number JP5480110 (the “110 Policy”). The 110 Policy is subject to the 2016 JP-Lincoln COI Rate Hike. The 401 and 110 Policies are a split of an original larger JP policy, and they both have identical terms.

11. The Lincoln National Life Insurance Company is a life insurance company incorporated under the laws of Indiana, with a principal place of business in Radnor, Pennsylvania. It sent the letters regarding the 2016 JP-Lincoln COI Rate Hike on the Martindale policies.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

12. This Court has jurisdiction over plaintiffs’ claims pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1332(d) and 28 U.S.C. §1332(a)(2) because this is a class action with diversity between at least one class member who is a citizen of a foreign state and other states beyond Indiana and Pennsylvania, and one defendant and the aggregate amount of damages exceeds $5,000,000; and the plaintiffs are residents of a foreign state and the amount in controversy exceeds $75,000. This action therefore falls within the original jurisdiction of the federal courts pursuant to the Class Action Fairness Act, 28 U.S.C § 1332(d) and 28 U.S.C. § 1332(a)(2).

13. This Court has general personal jurisdiction over The Lincoln National Life Insurance Company because it maintains its principal place of business in this district, and specific jurisdiction because many of the acts and decisions giving rise to this suit occurred in this District.

14. Venue is proper in this judicial district pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(1) because defendant Lincoln resides in this district, and pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(2) because a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to the claim occurred in this district, including Lincoln's issuance of the 2016 JP-Lincoln COI Rate Hike.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

A. The Policies at Issue

15. The policies at issue are UL policies issued by Jefferson-Pilot between 1999 and 2007. These policies are all flexible-premium, universal life policies, and there are no fixed or minimum premium payments specified in the policies.

16. The size of the COI charge is highly significant to Plaintiffs and all UL policyholders for at least two important reasons: (a) the COI charge is typically the highest expense that a policyholder pays; and (b) the COI charge is deducted from the policy account (i.e., the savings component) of the policy, so the policyholder forfeits the COI charge entirely.

17. Jefferson-Pilot's insurance policies (now Lincoln's) limit its ability to increase COI rates. The Martindale Policies contain the following contractual limitations:

The monthly cost of insurance rates are determined by us. Rates will be based on our expectation of future monthly interest, expenses, and lapses. Any change in the monthly cost of insurance rates used will be on a uniform basis for Insureds of the same rating class.

18. The Martindale Polices also state that “upon request, we will provide, without charge, an illustration showing projected policy values based on guaranteed as well as current mortality and interest factors.”

19. On information and belief, all policies hit by the 2016 increase contain the same terms as above. The policies at issue are all form policies, and insureds are not permitted to negotiate different terms. They are all contracts of adhesion.

B. Lincoln’s Unlawful COI Increases

20. On September 12, 2016, Lincoln sent increase notices to policyholders of four Jefferson-Pilot product lines, announcing an increase effective October 19, 2016. Lincoln simply pointed to “nearly a decade of persistently low interest rates, including recent historic lows, and volatile financial markets” in explaining the increase.

21. Lincoln told its brokers that the COI increases are the result of

- “Lower investment income as a result of continued low interest rates”;
- “Updated mortality assumptions, including instances of both higher and lower expected mortality rates versus prior expectations”; and
- “Updated expenses, including higher reinsurance rates.”

C. The COI Increases Are Unlawful

a. The COI Increases Were Not Based on the Enumerated Factors

22. The Jefferson-Pilot contracts governing the UL policies states that “[r]ates will be based on our expectation of future mortality, interest, expenses, and lapses.”

23. The 3 factors that Lincoln relies upon to justify the increase could not possibly justify an increase of the size demonstrated by the illustration of the 110 policy. Lincoln has pointed to 3 factors that justify the increase: its estimates for future cost factors of investment returns, mortality assumptions, and reinsurance costs—but those estimates are not sufficient to and do not justify the large increase imposed on the Martindale Policies (and likely others) of 50-90%.

24. First, Lincoln's expectations of future investment returns could not reasonably be materially lower than what Lincoln originally expected – and certainly not nearly so much lower as would be need to justify a massive increase of this size. For example, Lincoln National Corporation's ("LNC," the parent company of Lincoln) Q2 2016 reporting supplement shows a 5.22% earned rate on reserves, a mere tenth of a percent lower than the prior year. Lincoln has not disclosed what its initial investment return assumptions were, but on March 19, 2003, when the policy was issued, five-year US treasury rates were 2.98%, and at the time of the COI increase they were 1.24%, a fall of only 174 basis points, and not sufficient to justify COI increases of up to 90%.

25. Second, reinsurance costs cannot provide material support for the increase, and reinsurance costs are not an enumerated factor for an increase. Further, LNC's recent earnings releases do not mention losses due to increased reinsurance costs at all – in fact, its Q4 2014 results show a $53 million profit on recapturing policies from out of reinsurance contracts. Whatever changes there have been in Lincoln's future reinsurance costs cannot have provided material support for the increase.

26. Third, Lincoln claims that changing mortality expectations has contributed to some COI increases. But the opposite is true: Lincoln has filled interrogatories with the NAIC in each year from 2010 to 2014 stating that it expects mortality experience to improve. Mortality (normally the most important element in COI charge rates) has continuously improved nationwide since the policies were issued.

27. Fourth, Lincoln sent the owners several illustrations on the policies, including in 2014 on the 401 policy and in 2010 on the 110 policy, using the pre-increase COI rates. The policies state that the illustrations will be based on “current mortality and interest factors.” Mortality experience has not significantly changed since 2010 (or 2014). Since the 2010 and 2014 illustrations were required to reflect “current mortality” in 2010 (and 2014), and they illustrated the prior COI rates using those mortality assumptions, Lincoln’s now-current mortality experience (which has not meaningfully changed since 2010 or 2014) cannot justify any significant change in COI rates – and certainly not the massive changes reflected in this increase. Alternatively, if the illustrations did not reflect Lincoln’s then-current mortality assumptions in 2010 (or 2014), then all these illustrations breached the contractual provision that the illustrations must be based on “current mortality and interest factors.”

28. Finally, changing interest rates, mortality, and reinsurance costs could not possibly justify the large and unusually shaped increase imposed on the Martindale policies. Specifically, no changes in these factors could warrant imposing an increase that would result in Plaintiffs paying higher COI rates when the insured is younger than when she is older. This contradicts reasonable actuarial practice; for example, the Society of Actuaries report of the Individual Life Insurance Valuation Mortality Task Force lists of three basic goals for the mortality table, and the COI rates for the Martindale Policies run contrary to the third: “Mortality for any given attained age should increase with duration since issue.” Some other factor must have been included in the increase to generate that strange and illogical shape, and the contract language does not permit such other factors to be used as the basis for a COI increase.

b. The COI Increases Recouped Past Losses

29. The contract requires that “[r]ates will be based on our expectation of future monthly interest, expenses, and lapses.” This forbids COI increases that are based on a carrier’s desire to increase profits or to make up for past losses—a rationale Lincoln admitted to by invoking the past “decade of persistently low interest rates” and “recent historic lows” to justify the increase. Actuarial principles similarly prohibit the carrier from implementing a COI increase that would result in the carrier making more profit on the policies than it originally expected using its original expectations. Further, in its filings with the NAIC, Lincoln explained that “[c]ost factors that can vary are periodically reviewed and may be adjusted based on changes in prospective assumptions. The adjustments are made in such a way that past losses (ie experience less favorable to the company than expected) are not recouped.” The facts stated above, which indicate that a COI increase of this magnitude could not be supported by changes in Lincoln’s future cost expectations, confirm that Lincoln is increasing its profit targets on an old, closed block. In addition, the illustrations sent in 2010 and 2014 were required to be based on then-current mortality assumptions. Because mortality assumptions have not materially changed since 2010 (or 2014), the new increase massively increases Lincoln’s profits on the policies.

c. The COI Increases Were Not Uniform

30. An illustration provided by Lincoln of the COI increase on the 110 Policy shows increases of roughly 95% in the first year and 50% in the remaining two years. The increase also results in the COI rates being higher when the insured is 98 years old than when she is 99 years old. This is illogical and contrary to how the policy was originally priced.

31. The strange and illogical shape resulting from the increase on the 110 policy could not possibly have been replicated for every one of the same rating class. This non-uniform increase violates the contractual provision stating that “Any change in the monthly cost of insurance rates used will be on a uniform basis for Insureds of the same rate class.”

d. Lincoln refused to provide an illustration of the 401 Policy upon request

32. The 110 and 401 Policies were split from the same original Martindale policy, and have demonstrated uniform COI rates prior to the 2016 COI rate-hike.

33. Plaintiffs received upon request in October 2016 a post-COI Rate Hike illustration of the 110 Policy that demonstrated the drastic COI increases discussed herein.

34. Plaintiffs requested an illustration for the 401 policy in January 2017, but Lincoln refused to provide an illustration on the grounds that the policy is in its grace period. But the policy states: “Upon request, we will provide, without charge, an illustration showing projected policy values based on guaranteed as well as current mortality and interest factors. The first illustration in any policy year will be furnished free of charge. Any illustration after the first in any policy year may be obtained for a fee of $10.00.”

35. By refusing to provide an illustration, Lincoln breached the contract. Lincoln’s companywide refusal to provide illustrations to any policyholder whose policy is in its grace period is in contravention of the same contractual language. During grace period, a policy is considered to be in force.

DAMAGES CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS (2016 COI Increase Class)

36. This action is brought by Plaintiffs individually and on behalf of the following class—referred to herein as the “2016 COI Increase Class”—which consists of:

All owners of universal life insurance policies issued by Jefferson-Pilot Corporation (now The Lincoln National Life Insurance Company) that were subjected to the cost of insurance rate increase announced beginning on or after 2016 (excluding defendant Lincoln, its officers and directors, members of their immediate families, and the heirs, successors or assigns of any of the foregoing).

37. This class consists of thousands of consumers of life insurance and is thus so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable. The identities and addresses of class members can be readily ascertained from business records maintained by Lincoln.

38. The claims asserted by Plaintiffs are typical of the claims asserted by the 2016 COI Increase Class.

39. Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the 2016 COI Increase Class and does not have any interests antagonistic to those of the other members of this class.

40. Plaintiffs have retained attorneys who are knowledgeable and experienced in life insurance matters, COI increase matters, as well as class and complex litigation.

41. Plaintiffs request that the Court afford class members with notice and the right to opt-out of any class certified in this action.

42. This action is appropriate as a class action pursuant to Rule 23(b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure because common questions of law and fact affecting the class predominate over those questions affecting only individual members. Those common questions include:

- (a) the construction and interpretation of the form insurance policies at issue in this litigation;
- (b) whether Lincoln's actions to increase the cost of insurance charges on certain UL policies violated the terms of those form policies; and
- (c) whether Plaintiffs and Class members are entitled to receive damages as a result of the unlawful conduct by defendant alleged herein and the methodology for calculating those damages.

43. A class action is superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy for at least the following reasons:

(a) the complexity of issues involved in this action and the expense of litigating the claims, few, if any, class members could afford to seek legal redress individually for the wrongs that defendant committed against them, and absent class members have no substantial interest in individually controlling the prosecution of individual actions;

(b) when defendant's liability has been adjudicated, claims of all class members can be determined by the Court;

(c) this action will cause an orderly and expeditious administration of the class claims and foster economies of time, effort and expense, and ensure uniformity of decisions;

(d) without a class action, many class members would continue to suffer injury, and defendant's violations of law will continue without redress while defendant continues to reap and retain the substantial proceeds of its wrongful conduct; and

(e) this action does not present any undue difficulties that would impede its management by the Court as a class action.

INJUNCTIVE CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS (The "Illustration Grace Class")

44. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate all allegations of this complaint as if fully set forth herein.

45. This action is brought by Plaintiffs individually and on behalf of the following class—referred to herein as the "Illustration Grace Class"—which consists of:

All policyholders of life insurance policies issued by The Lincoln National Life Insurance Company or its predecessors, successors, or subsidiaries (excluding defendant Lincoln, its officers and directors, members of their immediate families, and the heirs, successors or assigns of any of the foregoing), where such policies include the following language: "Upon request, we will provide ... an illustration ...."

46. This class consists of thousands of consumers of life insurance and is thus so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable. The identities and addresses of class members can be readily ascertained from business records maintained by Lincoln.

47. The claims asserted by Plaintiffs are typical of the claims asserted by the Illustration Grace Class.

48. Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Illustration Grace Class and do not have any interests antagonistic to those of the other members of this class.

49. Plaintiffs have retained attorneys who are knowledgeable and experienced in life insurance matters as well as class and complex litigation.

50. This action is appropriate as a class action pursuant to Rule 23(b)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure because defendant Lincoln has refused to provide illustrations for policies in grace period to the class, so that final injunctive relief or corresponding declaratory relief is appropriate respecting the class as a whole.

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Breach of Contract against Lincoln (on behalf of Plaintiffs, and the 2016 COI Increase Class)

51. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate all allegations of this complaint as if fully set forth herein.

52. The subject policies are binding and enforceable contracts.

53. The 2016 COI rate increases have materially breached the policies, and the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing.

54. Plaintiffs have performed all of their obligations under the policies, except to the extent that their obligations have been excused by Lincoln's conduct as set forth herein. While Plaintiffs have been informed that the policies will lapse in January 2017 without the payment additional premiums incorporating the unlawfully high COI rate, Plaintiffs hereby represent to the Court their intent to maintain the policies at the lawful COI rate, and constructively tender to the Court sufficient funds to make such payments.

55. As a direct and proximate cause of Lincoln's material breaches of the policies, plaintiffs and the classes have been—and will continue to be—damaged as alleged herein in an amount to be proven at trial.

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Violation of 28 Tex. Admin. Code §§ 21.2206 to 21.2212, Tex. Ins. Code art. 21.21

(Plaintiffs and Texas Subclass)

56. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate all allegations of this complaint as if fully set forth herein. The Texas Subclass consists of all members of the 2016 COI Increase Class, where the policy was issued for delivery in Texas.

57. The illustration provided to plaintiffs in 2010 showed improperly favorable non-guaranteed elements and illustrated non-guaranteed elements in a misleading manner. For example the illustration provided in 2010 projected a COI charge of 1.4% per month for the period 3/19/2018 – 3/18/2019. Based on this illustration the Plaintiffs continued to pay premiums into the policies, with total premiums paid into the policy of $7,895,875.81 as of October 1, 2016. After the COI increase the plaintiffs ordered a new illustration, which projects a COI charge of 2.0% per month that will be applied for the period 3/19/2018 – 3/18/2019. Subchapter N of the Texas Department of Insurance Trade Practices regulations Rule § 21.2204 requires that Insurers develop a “Disciplined current scale” to act as a “limit on illustrations.” This scale must be “reasonably based on actual recent historical experience.” Rule §21.2204(5) (emphasis added). Insurers may not use an illustration that “depicts performance more favorable to the policy owner.” Rule § 21.2206(2)(E) – Prohibited conduct. If Lincoln’s justification of the COI increase is to be believed, the illustration provided on or around August 3, 2010, that projected a future COI charge of 1.4% per month, rather than 2.0% per month, depicted performance more favorable to the policy holder than would have been possible using a scale that was reasonably based on their recent experience.

58. Pursuant to Tex. Ins. Code art. 21.21 § 16(b), Plaintiffs and the Texas Subclass are entitled to (1) actual damages plus court costs and reasonable and necessary attorneys’ fees, (2) treble damages for a knowing violation, (3) an injunction against the COI increase, and (4) any other relief that the court deems proper.

THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF

Injunctive Relief as to Illustrations in Grace Period (on behalf of Plaintiffs, and the Illustration Grace Class)

59. Plaintiffs’ contracts state: “Upon request, we will provide, without charge, an illustration showing projected policy values based on guaranteed as well as current mortality and interest factors.”

60. Lincoln has refused to provide illustrations for policies in their grace period, stating a company-wide policy that: “While a policy is in a grace period, we are unable to provide an inforce illustration.”

61. Lincoln’s refusal to provide illustrations while the policy and the underlying contract remain valid represents a clear breach of contract.

62. Plaintiffs therefore seek, on behalf of all Lincoln life insurance policyholders whose contracts contain such language, injunctive relief prohibiting Lincoln from denying illustrations to policyholders during their policies' grace periods.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray for judgment as follows:

1. Declaring this action to be a class action properly maintained pursuant to Rule 23(b)(3) and Rule 23(b)(2) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure;
2. Awarding Plaintiffs and the damages class compensatory damages, restitution, disgorgement, and any other relief permitted by law or equity pursuant to the First and Second Claims for Relief;
3. Awarding Plaintiffs and the damages class pre-judgment and post-judgment interest pursuant to their First and Second Claims for Relief, as well as costs, and all other relief set forth above;
4. Awarding Plaintiffs and the injunctive class injunctive or declaratory relief pursuant to the Third Claim for Relief, as well as attorneys' fees and costs; and
4. Awarding Plaintiffs and the classes such other relief as this Court may deem just and proper under the circumstances.

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

Pursuant to Rule 38 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, Plaintiffs hereby demand a trial by jury as to all issues so triable.
